MAP OF ISRAEL'S MIGRATIONS INTO THE BRITISH ISLES

By the Rev. L. G. A. Roberts, Commander R.N.

THIS map was originally compiled from an old map of Cellarius, 1703, which gives us names not forthcoming in the modern atlasses. If it had only been this evidence which lay to our hand, we should have halted before attempting to appear to oppose the scientific ethnologists or anthropologists, who all of them give our original from a Japhetic stock. But Scripture evidence is so positive as to Israel being in the Islands to the North and in the West of Palestine, and the discovery of the ancient tombstones in the vicinity of the Crimea, inscribed in Hebrew pre-captivity characters, is so confirmatory of Herodotus and II Esdras 13: 39-46, alluding to the same identical migrations from the Araxes to Arsareth, that it would be wrong to withhold such historical evidence as we have acquired, assisted by what one might assume to be traditional corroborations of the Scriptural assertions.

The routes 1 to 6 marked Green are pre-exilic routes, i.e., before BC 771.

Those routes 7 to 18 marked Red are post-captivity, after BC 771.

Of the former, route 1 alone and marked with intervals, though scriptural is supported by traditional rather than historical evidence.

All the other routes have scriptural and historical confirmations.

For the sake of brevity, and also not to refer to too many authors, references are necessarily few, but it is hoped, sufficient to lead those interested into further research.

We refrain from allusion to Phoenician Origin of Britons, Scots and Anglo-Saxons for the reason that he makes us out to be Amorite and Hittite as Ezek. 16: 3 leads us to expect that "science" would assert. One great result he does insist upon is that the Briton is essentially the intellectual race of civilization, that they were intimately mixed up with Phoenician and are alluded to as having been in Egypt. So far so good, but his view of the Aaronic priesthood and Biblical knowledge, sounds to us of the higher critical style and we resent this.

In the issue of a further edition of "BRITISH HISTORY traced from Egypt and Palestine also the Anglo-Saxon original," this reconstructed map has much on it that has been lately found out from Herodotus and others.

In the arranging of the routes and the production of the same map, the author and The Covenant Publishing Co. Ltd., are indebted to Lt. Colonel C. C. Robertson, D.S.O., without whose help it might have remained much upon its old lines.
